

Deprcon warning: Capital market collapse (11/03/2020)

Hi.

The events we have anticipated are now moving extremely fast in real-time.

The shock of the dramatic collapse in the oil price over the weekend, and the global economic consequences of continuous negative developments in the coronavirus news cycle have combined to push the world's markets into what appears to be an uncontrollable tailspin.

Just today, the Fed engaged in the biggest-ever repo-operation of $132.38 billion, as stresses in different parts of the credit market and banking system build rapidly.

GnS Economics is now issuing a very unusual warning about the possibility of an outright collapse of global capital markets.

This may not happen tomorrow, but If present trends continue, it may happen very soon. A lot depends on the policy responses, but they can bring only temporary relief.

It is extremely important to seek shelter according to the guidelines we outlined in the "Prepper's Bunker" report which you will find attached.

We will issue an updated the report in a matter of days, but the main hedging strategies remain essentially the same.

Be safe,

Tuomas
